Find Your Story

A short primer before we meet. No homework, and no wrong answers.

READ THIS FIRST

Hi, I'm Dean.

Almost everyone tells me the same thing the first time we talk. "I hate every photo of myself."

I get it. Most portraits ask you to be someone else for an hour. Stand here. Chin down. Now smile. You walk away with a picture of a stranger who happens to have your face.

I do it differently. You tell me your story. I build a scene around it. Then you live it while I photograph you being you.

> This isn't a quiz. Please don't write out your answers.

I want to hear the real version when we sit down, not the rehearsed one. Read this, then let the ideas rattle around for a few days. That's all the prep you need.

One more thing. When we meet, you can pass on any question. I mean that.

TWO KINDS OF STORY

Every session lands in one of two places.

Neither one is better. Most people don't know which one they are until we talk, and that's fine.

DIRECTION ONE

Story to tell

You have something to say. Maybe you just finished something hard. Maybe you're starting something new. Maybe you want your kids to know who you were at 40.

These sessions are built around that one message and the scenes that carry it.

DIRECTION TWO

Seen as you are

You don't need a big message. You just want photos that finally look like you.

These sessions are built around your everyday world, and the moments you forget I'm there.

Not sure which one you are? Good. That's exactly what the Discovery Hour is for.

THIS WEEK

Notice. Don't rehearse.

Over the next week, pay attention to a few things. You don't have to write anything down. Just notice.

1. Where you exhale. The places where your shoulders drop without you trying.
2. What you reach for. The mug, the guitar, the wrench, the jacket you refuse to throw away.
3. What you wear when nobody's grading you. Not your best outfit. Your favorite one.
4. Who gets your real laugh. And what your face does when they get it.
5. When you feel most awake. Sunrise people and midnight people both have great light.
6. The thing you'd talk about for an hour. If someone finally let you.

That's it. Bring whatever stuck with you. We'll take it from there.

BEFORE WE MEET

Bring a few phone photos.

Snap a few pictures before the Discovery Hour. They don't need to be good. They're for me, not for Instagram.

- [ ] A place that feels like yours
- [ ] An object that's been with you for years
- [ ] An outfit you feel great in
- [ ] Anyone or anything you might want in the frame. A pet, a car, your tools, your people.

If you have something to say

Some people show up with a message already in their chest. If that's you, bring it rough. Don't polish it, and don't try to make it sound good. We'll find the words together.

If nothing comes to mind, that's an answer too. Being seen is plenty.

HOW IT WORKS

Three steps to your story portraits.

1

15 MINUTES · FREE

Connection Call

A short call to see if we're a fit. Ask anything you still want to know.

2

AN HOUR OVER COFFEE OR DRINKS

Discovery Hour

You tell me your story, and we plan the scene together. You'll have your session plan within 7 days. The $200 goes toward your session when you book within 30 days.

3

WHERE YOUR STORY LIVES

Session and prints

We shoot where you feel like yourself. I edit every image by hand, then choose your framed prints from the full spread.

Sessions start at $900. Founding rates run through December 25, 2026. Prices are before 8.25% Texas sales tax.

READY WHEN YOU ARE

Let's find your story together.

Fifteen minutes on the phone. No pressure, and no pitch. If we're a fit, we'll set up your Discovery Hour.
