Everything you need to run a headshot day without chasing anyone down.

Somebody had to organize this. Probably you.

Headshot day sounds simple until you're the one wrangling forty calendars. People forget. People hide. Somebody shows up in a neon logo shirt.

This kit is the work I'd do myself if I were sitting in your chair. There's a checklist, an email you can paste, a sign-up sheet, a room check, and a timeline for the day.

Copy whatever helps. Every page is meant to be stolen.

STEP ONE

Decide five things.

Get these settled first. Everything else falls into place behind them.

- [ ] Headcount. Include remote staff and anyone starting in the next 60 days. Shooting them now is cheaper than a second trip later.
- [ ] The date. Wednesdays and Thursdays go first. Mondays lose people to catch-up, and Fridays lose them to time off.
- [ ] Who gets the Featured Set. Founders, partners, and anyone whose face is part of the brand. Everyone else gets the Standard Set.
- [ ] The room. One room or a quiet corner for most of the day. Page 6 has the checklist.
- [ ] A cutoff for anyone who'll miss it. Pick the date they need to tell you by. They can join a new hire reshoot later.

STEP TWO

The email to your team.

Paste this, fill in the blanks, and hit send.

Subject: Headshots on ___date___. Pick your time.

Hi team,

We're updating everyone's headshots on ___date___ so our website and LinkedIn finally match. Dean Draper from Sharp Sighted Photos is setting up a small studio in ___room___.

It takes about 10 to 15 minutes. If you're getting the Featured Set, plan on 30.

Pick your time here. ___link to the sign-up sheet___

A few tips for looking your best.

- Wear solid colors. Skip big logos and busy patterns.
- Dress like you're meeting an important client.
- Not sure about a top? Bring a second one. We'll pick on the monitor.
- Glasses are fine. Wear them if you usually do.
- Getting the Featured Set? Bring a second outfit and the tools of your work.

Not a fan of having your photo taken? You're in good hands. Dean directs the whole time, and you'll see every frame on a monitor as you go.

Thanks,
___your name___

STEP THREE

The sign-up sheet.

Print it, or copy it into a shared sheet. Standard slots are 15 minutes. Featured slots take two rows.

TIME	NAME	SET
9:00		Standard / Featured
9:15		Standard / Featured
9:30		Standard / Featured
9:45		Standard / Featured
10:00		Standard / Featured
10:15		Standard / Featured
10:30		Standard / Featured
10:45		Standard / Featured
11:00	Break
11:15		Standard / Featured
11:30		Standard / Featured
11:45		Standard / Featured
12:00		Standard / Featured

Most teams of 10 are done in three to four hours. Plan a 15-minute break every two hours.

STEP FOUR

The room check.

Walk the room with this list. If most of the boxes get a check, we're in great shape.

- [ ] About 10 by 12 feet of clear floor. A conference room with the table pushed aside works.
- [ ] A ceiling 8 feet or higher. Most offices clear this easily.
- [ ] Two outlets nearby. Standard wall outlets are all I need.
- [ ] A small table. This is where the review monitor sits.
- [ ] A mirror close by. A restroom down the hall counts.
- [ ] A door that closes, or a quiet corner. People relax faster when the whole office isn't walking by.
- [ ] Parking near a door. I bring a few cases of gear in and out.

STEP FIVE

The day, start to finish.

01 I arrive and set up. About an hour before the first slot. You don't need to babysit me.

02 The first person sits. Everyone sees their frames on a 15-inch monitor and picks favorites right there.

03 Breaks happen where the sheet says. If someone runs late, I shuffle the order. Nobody gets skipped.

04 Last slot, then I pack out. The room is back to normal in under an hour.

05 Edited images arrive in 3 to 5 business days. Need them sooner? A 48-hour rush is $150.
